

Before You Go: What Every Parent Needs to Say and Every Kid Needs to Hear

What do I say? Many of us are faced with the moment when our children leave home and begin the next chapter of their lives. We hope they are prepared to face the challenges to come. In this book, author William Rice, shares what every parent needs to speak and every kid needs to hear before time slips away. Through personal letters written to his son, he lays a foundation for the words of wisdom found in the proverbs which are included in Gods Word. Take a journey through these teachings and learn the essential lessons that one generation needs to pass along to another.
