

The Surgical Treatment the Diseases of Infancy and Childhood (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Surgical Treatment the Diseases of Infancy and Childhood It has long been a favourite project of mine to endeavour to supply an admitted want in our surgical literature by publishing a systematic treatise on the practical surgery of childrens diseases. Much material exists in the valuable Lectures of Mr. Athol Johnson and Mr. Bryant; in the interesting record which Mr. Cooper Forster has given of his individual experience; in the Notices sur la Chirurgie des Enfants of M. Guersant; the clinical lectures now in course of preparation by M. Giraldes; and in the great repertory on this branch of medicine, the Journal fur Kinderkrankheiten. I have endeavoured to combine in a moderate compass the most useful matter that I could find in these and other sources, with the results of my own nine years experience at the Childrens Hospital, so as to form a practical guide to the general surgery of early life. Some special subjects I have omitted, viz. diseases of the eye and ear, orthop?dics, and diseases of the skin; not because I am in favour of the present fashion of cutting up surgery into little pieces, but because the volume had already exceeded what I intended; and these subjects are all excellently treated in works which are in everybodys hands.
